

The Inner Path to Leadership

two days to release your leadership-potential

27th and 28th January 2011

An Academy of Inner Science Business Event

The inner path to leadership allows us to access our authentic power in a way that also empowers others, and it allows us to align our work with our deepest values, our most fearless vision. Leadership which arises from an inner ground can transform a group into a strong field for evolutionary change, and it can bring about profound cultural and societal change too.

During these two days we will use a radical new combination of systemic constellation tools and Thomas Hübl's teachings in presence and transparent communication to release your creative and leadership potential. By working through your hidden obstacles to change, and working with the whole-systems intelligence of an awakened field, we will facilitate the emergence of powerful new inner structures and personal potentials.

This event is for you whether you are a leader or a leader-to-be, whether you work in a large organisation or in your own small business. It is for coaches, consultants and managers; for anyone in the economic, artistic, scientific, health-care or educational arenas. It is for you if you wish to optimise the contribution you make in this life through your work-in-the-world.

We will be speaking in English, with German translation provided informally when necessary, and we will be creative linguistically - ensuring that basic needs are met. We ask that you have a minimum basic level of working English.

The Academy of Inner Science (AIS) is lead by Thomas Hübl as a platform to research human potential (see: www.thomashuebl.com/index.php?lang=en). The AIS Economy and Consciousness Circle is driven by a vision for new models of work where people are drawn to serve the deeper social purpose of their workplace, are attracted to the future - exploring new capacities and levels of perception, and are called toward their very highest evolutionary potential.

Helmut Dannemann is well-known as a consultant, coach, supervisor and mediator in NGOs, community-structures and in the corporate world. He has over 15 years of experience on all levels, and has also held leading positions in the social sector. Helmut has developed a personal style which invites collective intelligence to open and flourish in people and organizations, creatively integrating Thomas Hübl's work and embracing the art of systemic constellations.

Stephen Busby is a coach and consultant with 25 years' experience supporting people in fulfilling their higher potential in international organisations in public, private and non-profit sectors. He has a special interest in the impact of hidden symmetries in relational and organisational systems, and has developed new applications of constellation work. He is based at Findhorn in Scotland, where he is researching new forms of systemic coaching for evolutionary potential.
